HORSE SHOW ENDS AS RECORD CROWD APPLAUDS WINNERS

Children's Ponies and Women's Hunters Compete in Brooklyn.

MISS DODSWORTH IS OUT

Owner of Thus and Other Champions to Retire as an Exhibitor of Saddle Horses.

The twenty-ninth annual horse show of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club ended last night, or rather this morning, with a double bill for the closing day. The unusual attendance which had marked the exhibition from the outset was continued at both the afternoon and evening sessions the seating caset was continued at both the atternoon and evening sessions, the seating capacity of the club house being overtaxed on each occasion. Apart from the failure of the harness classes, which left a somewhat monotonous succession of saddle and jumping competitions to run through five sessions, the show was highly successful.

through five sessions, the show was highly successful.

Pontes played a leading role at the Saturday matinee, and in one class, for children's miniature riding hacks, the judges themselves waxed enthusiastic, along with all the horsemen at the ringside who saw Harry Plumb's bay mare Babette win the blue ribbon. W. A. McGibbon, one of those who awarded the prize, thought she was the smartest saddle pony he had seen in years, and he said she was only three years old.

A jumping competition with twenty-seven entries, women to ride, over four foot fences, proved to be the thriller of the afternoon programme. It was foot fences, proved to be the thriller of the afternoon programme. It was won in handsome style by William Almy's bay gelding Sandy, champion of last year's Newport Horse Show, with Miss Marie Louise Almy in the saddle. Miss Louise Banks Lott was the runnerup on Dean Bedford's bay gelding Lone Star, while Mrs. James A. Hewlett rode both F. F. V. and Black Dixon, placed third and fourth, respectively.

The class for exhibits of three saddle horses in one ownership brought out only six of the eighteen entries, and apparently confirmed the report that Miss Alice A. Dodsworth has decided to show her saddle horses no more. Thus, more or less criticised for discontinuing the printing of the yearly stud book, so a few words in explanation of this change would seem well at this time. For many years the club published this book and up to about eleven years ago furnished it to all associate subscribers together with the monthly Gazette and two registrations all for $5, the associate subscribers. two registrations all for $5, the associate ste subscription. It was then found that this book alone was costing actually more than the $5 paid each year by these subscribers, as during former years the cost of printing was even then increasing, and, of course, the book was growing larger and larger each year as the number of registrations grew.

The club then decided upon a charge of $5 for the book with the result that it was discovered that very few fanciers cared enough for this publication to even pay that small annual charge for it, until in the last year that it was printed its
